The Pillar of Shame in Kurdistan

Erection of the fourth Pillar of Shame in Kurdistan

Hereby a description of the establishment of a memorial sculpture about the genocides on the Iraqi Kurds.

The sculpture is an 8 meter high sculpture called the Pillar of Shame. It is part of an artistic project in which 10 places in the world are, where a crime has been committed, are chosen. Until now sculptures have been installed in Hong Kong, Mexico and Brazil.

In June 2012 I visited Kurdistan, a visit which I appreciated very much. It was an amazing experience and I am very thankful to the first lady of Iraq Ahmed Ibrahim Talabani who made facilities and competent people available for us, in order to give us guided tours about the Kurdish culture and history. In particular the introduction about the extent of Anfal has been a very harrowing and rewarding experience. It has given me a good basis for my further work on the project placing my 4th Pillar of Shame sculpture in Kurdistan in order to focus on the genocides, both nationally and internationally.

Changing of the sculpture

In order to fit into the Kurdish traditions, we have to change the Pillar of Shame in Kurdistan.. Many of the carcasses on the sculpture might for instance appear naked in their expression. Therefore I will change the surface of the sculpture and give it a more dressed expression and Kurdish -inspired costumes.

On the plinth made two reliefs in copper / bronze will be an artistic interpretation of the genocide of the Kurdish people. These two reliefs created by the Kurdish artist couple Niaz Al-Bayati and Avan Fatha Abdullah, who is among the best Kurdish sculptor and has extensive experience in reliefs. The socket 2 other pages describe the genocide in the text both in Kurdish Arabic and English.

Casting of the sculpture in bronze

Because I have to make relatively large changes in the surface on the Kurdish Pillar of shame, I can only use my silicone shapes from the three other Pillar of shame to make a wax model of the sculpture. There will be a lot of work with transforming the 8 meter tall sculpture. This change means that we have to cast the sculpture and relief in bronze, unlike the other three sculptures which are made of concrete sculpture. This cast is more expensive but it will be more durable and will get an amazing radiance and richness of details.

Budget:

Making of a pilar in shame in bronze, cast and ready-made	330.000 euro
Transport costs from DK and crane work on the site	20.000 euro
Avan and Niaz modelling work and fees	50.000 euro
Jens Galschiøt about change with more clothes on	50.000 euro
Div spending about 10%	4.500 euro
Total amount	454.500 euro
Travel and subsistence	? euro
Any eurocapital constrution in Kurdistan

THE PILLAR OF SHAME

- a Sculptural Outcry

A Pillar of Shame was set up in Hong Kong on 4th June 1997. This event marked the initiation of an art manifestation that is now spreading over the Planet. Over the next ten years a Pillar of Shame will be mounted about once a year as a memorial of a severe infringement against humanity. The Pillar is an original dark sculpture eight metres in height depicting more than 50 painfully twisted human bodies.

The Pillar of Shame represents a good deal of money: the only symbol which really commands global respect. Monuments of this calibre are normally set up in memory of 'heroic' deeds.

However, here the sculpture is mounted to serve as a continual reminder of a shameful act which must never reoccur. The Pillar of Shame is a kind of Nobel Prize of Injustice.

HONG KONG

The first Pillar of Shame was set up in Hong Kong on 4th June 1997 to denounce the crackdown of the democracy movement 1989 in Beijing.

Setting up the Pillar ahead of the hand-over on 1st July, was a way of placing the sculpture on Chinese territory. Expressing an overt accusation of the old men's regime in Beijing, it functions as a litmus test of the authorities' vow to respect human rights and free speech in Hong Kong.

On 30th April 2008 the Pillar was painted orange by Chinese democracy activists. The event was carried out in connection with the world wide Color Orange campaign launched by Jens Galschiot to denounce China's human rights violations on the occasion of the Olympic Games August 2008.

Galschiot and his staff had come to Hong Kong to join the event but they were denied entrance by the migration authorities.

MEXICO

On the occasion of 1st May 1999 the Pillar of Shame was set up on the Zócalo in the Mexican capital. For two days the sculpture towered in front of the Parliament to pillory the oppression of the indigenous people.

The Pillar found its final site at the entrance of the village of Acteal in Chiapas where 45 unarmed indigenous people were slaughtered by a paramilitary group on 22nd December '97.

The erection of the sculpture was attended by hundreds of local people.

On 22nd December 2003, the 6th anniversary of the massacre plates in the local language Tzotzil were donated to the inhabitants of Acteal.

In the first place the plates on the Pillar were in Spanish and English - languages that many indigenous people do not understand. The Tzotzil plates were a way of meeting the indigenous peoples' growing linguistic self consciousness.

BRAZIL

On 17 April 2000 a Pillar of Shame was erected in front of the Parliament, on the Square of Three Powers in the Brazilian capital. The sculpture was set up in commemoration of the 19 landless peasants who were killed by the military police in the northern state of Pará on 17 April 1996.

The Pillar was mounted in co-operation with the MST (the landless peasants movement) and MPs of the opposition bloc. For two days the statue uttered an overt accusation against the ‘three powers’ (Government, Parliament and Supreme Court) who were responsible for injustice and impunity in the country.

The contentious Pillar of Shame was erected despite exacerbated resistance from the right wing and sections of the government. The Minister of Justice had stated that: “This sculpture will never be set up in front of the Brazilian Parliament.”

On 1st May the Pillar of Shame, dubbed ‘Nobel Prize of Injustice’, was set up for good in Belém, capital of the northern state of Pará, where the Eldorado massacre had taken place in connection with a land occupation.

The sculpture was set up in the wake of fierce scuffles between protestors against impunity and the police.

Despite of resistance from the elite, we stick to our promise of setting up the Pillar of Shame as a symbol opposing oppression and violence that is taking a toll of lives and depriving people of their rights, Mayor Edmilson Rodrigues declared at the inauguration.

Recommendation of Jens Galschiot

Text from Bruun Rasmussen's art-auction No. 94, 2004

(www.bruun-rasmussen.dk)

Jens Galschiot was born in 1954, in Frederikssund, he is married and has three children. Certificate as a construction blacksmith in 1978. He is a self taught silversmith and sculptor. He settled in Odense in 1973 and opened his 2000 m² large studio in 1985, which contains a bronze foundry, a workshop, a gallery and a sculpture park.

Galschiot's mode of expression mainly consists of naturalistic and organic forms, which are influenced by the Spanish architect Antoni Gaudí, and the semi-occult style from the Jugend period. In many of his sculptures 'the void' is as an essential part of the expression: for instance when he exhibits clothing sculptures (with the shape of the body, but void of the body), the viewers are encouraged to use their own imagination to fill in the emptiness, by using images from their own lives. If he succeeds in doing so the artist has achieved his goal: to make his sculptures and the human imagination work together.

Internationally, Galschiot could be characterized as one of the most significant Danish artists of late modernity (after 1980). His artistic production covers a wide field of expression; from jewellery and small dainty figures to gigantic, politically emphatic sculptures. He is among the best-known Danish artists abroad. His reputation extends from Hong Kong, and Mexico to Germany, Spain, and the U.S.A. Apart from clothing sculptures Jens Galschiot creates international happenings to highlight the present imbalance of the world. The first of its kind was 'My Inner Beast' from 1993, which was erected in 20 European cities, as a reminder to us all that Humanism is merely a thin coating disguising the potential brutality of our nature as human beings, and that it is a constant struggle to preserve and improve the results Humanism has achieved so far. Another example is 'The Pillar of Shame', which symbolizes the oppression of human rights; the first time it was erected was in Hong Kong in 1997.

Galschiot's fascination of garment objects led to a partnership with the late Erik Mortensen and Jean Voigt. In 1990 Galschiot created the 'Ringwearer's Jacket'. It was given to Her Majesty, Queen Margaret II on her 50th birthday. The gift was ordered by the Garment Industry's Organisation. The sculpture is now exhibited in the park of Marselisborg Castle, the Queen's residence in Aarhus.

In connection with Hans Christian Andersen's 200 years jubilee in 2005, Jens Galschiot has been requested to suggest a sculpture, in honour of Odense's great storyteller. The artist has made a bronze model named: 'The Storyteller's Fountain'- a tenth of the size of the final work - which can be viewed at his workshop.
